TWO CHARMING GUESTS.

Mrs. Mary R. Williams and Miss Ada Lee Isaacs of Washington, D. C., are visiting their sister, Mrs. H. L. White at Warrington, Fla., where they will remain during the stay of the North Atlantic fleet in these waters—their brother, Chaplain Walter G. Isaacs being attached to the battleship Kearsarge. Miss Isaacs has a mezzo-soprano voice of fine quality, and having studied under leading vocalists of San Francisco and Washington gives much pleasure to her friends by her singing.

THE MISSES BURTON ENTERTAIN FOR MR. BRITTON.

Miss May and Miss Minnie Burton entertained a party of friends most enjoyably Tuesday night in honor of their guest, Mr. Britton of Elgin, Ill. There were games and music with a daintily served luncheon of strawberry ice cream and various delicious cakes to enhance the general pleasure.

Among those present besides the charming and popular hostesses and Mr. Britton, were Miss Buda Day, Miss Josie Roberts, Miss Julia Gay, Miss Edith Luske, Miss Flossie Boyer, Miss Eunice Rogers, Miss Nell Richards, Miss Lillie Williams, Miss Eva Lillian Keeling, Miss Alma Esmond, Mr. Nobles, Mr. Will and Mr. John Richards, Mr. Tom Walsh, Mr. Walter Bennett, Mr. Lawrence Green, Mr. Fred Luske, Mr. Oscar Williams, Mr. McGowan, Mr. Frank Rogers, Mr. Howard Burton.

MRS. J. C. PEBLEY ENTERTAINED THE FLINCH.

Mrs. J. C. Pebley was the charming hostess of the Excelsior Flinch Club yesterday, and, notwithstanding the threatening weather there was a full attendance of members and an unusually large number of visitors assembled at her attractive home on East Hill.

There were lovely decorations of cut flowers and palms and the hostesses pretty little namesake, Miss Clara Pebley Pepper fairly like all in white scored. The score cards were very dainty red cards to each of which was attached a white card bearing an exquisitely steel engraved head. During the social hour there was an attractive service of ices, cakes and fruit punch.

The visitors present were Miss Jennie Cook, Miss Loma Gould and her cousin Miss Robinson of Mississippi, Miss Julia Gay, Miss Burrow, Mrs. J. M. Flinn and Mrs. P. M. Williams.

There was an enthusiastic desire to fall heir to the beautiful score cards of the two absent members, Mrs. Charles Rice who is out of town and Mrs. Angus McMillan who was detained at home.

Miss Jennie Cook will entertain next Wednesday afternoon complimentary to the club.

AN INSTANCE OF DARING.

Brig. Gen. E. V. Sumner, U. S. A., retired, sends us the following, which presents a remarkable illustration, says the Army and Navy Journal, not only of the courage, but of the chivalry of the American soldier. We can now remember with pride that all of the actors in this striking drama were American citizens. General Sumner says: "In the movements of large bodies of men during war, the actions of individuals are scarcely noticed, little thought of at the time and forgotten later.

"It may be of interest to some readers to have a few instances of personal daring and bravery brought before them, a description of the incident as it occurred being the only object. Among the thousands of deeds of individual valor that took place daily during Grant's campaign in the Wilderness, there was one instance particularly striking.

"On May 6 Sheridan's Cavalry struck out from the main Army of the Potomac toward the right of Lee's army. At Todd's Tavern the Confederate Cavalry was encountered and the fight began, everybody on foot, because there were few roads through the Wilderness and the trees and underbrush so dense that the men frequently had to crawl through on hands and knees. The Confederates, being greatly outnumbered, were gradually forced back and this forcing process was going on until at one place in the line there opened up to view a log cabin and a cleared field enclosed by a rail fence. The Confederates on reaching this clearing kept religiously to the fencing for protection and went round the field like rabbits, but among all those in retreat there was one Confederate officer who disdained to seek shelter and who had the temerity to climb the fence and cross the open field. He was a large, fine looking fellow and in that open field alone he looked to be ten feet high. The Union Cavalry on reaching this field saw this man alone and began firing at him. The Union officer in command of the line coming up and seeing this wonderful bravery and self-control, ordered the men to cease firing. Probably at the same instant the men themselves were struck by such an unlooked-for performance and instantly every rifle was silent. The Confederate officer heard the order to cease firing, and while not more than one hundred yards away he deliberately faced about, saluted the Union soldiers with his saber, turned and marched off the field at a pace slow enough to emphasize the dignity of the occasion, carrying with him as he went the cheers of the Union line.

"It would be remarkable for an officer not to be confident and brave when surrounded by brave men, ever ready to follow him, but the individality of the Confederate officer, deserted as he was by all his men while under fire, surpasses any instance of the kind in the records of war."

Mrs. Mary Frances Grant Cramer, a sister of the late Gen. Ulysses S. Grant, and renowned in religious and charitable circles, was found dead in bed April 4 at the home of her sister, Mrs. Virginia Grant Corbin, East Orange, N. J. Paralysis of the heart caused the death, which was totally unexpected by her friends. She attended a prayer meeting Tuesday evening and seemed in the best of health. She was sixty-six years old. Mrs. Cramer was the youngest of the six children of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Grant, the noted general being the oldest. She was married in 1863 to the Rev. Dr. Michael J. Cramer, who was for many years Minister at Copenhagen. His death was somewhat similar to that of Mrs. Cramer. They are survived by a son, Dr. Jesse Grant Cramer, of New York—Army and Navy Journal.

The Ladies Home Missionary Society of the Gadsden M. E. church will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Anna Rosasco, who is now in New York, has recently had a severe attack of malaria no doubt brought on by the sudden change of climate to where the weather has been very cold and changeable and one has to be very careful to protect oneself from pneumonia. She was happily well enough last Sunday to be the guest of her cousin Mrs. May de Bolet at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mrs. Alex Rosenau who has been seriously ill for two weeks is now improving to the relief of her many anxious relatives and friends.

Mrs. Des Brough and Mrs. Coagwell are two attractive ladies "in from the West" to have a look at the great fleet of battleships before returning to their homes in Oregon after a charming winter on the Gulf coast.

Mr. L. A. Bell is making a business tour of the gas belt of Indiana and will visit Chicago and Denver, and will be absent about two weeks.

Mr. Albert Farley of Little Bayou who left last week for Opp, Ala., returned Tuesday with a charming bride, Mr. and Mrs. Farley are at home with his parents on Little Bayou for the present.

Mrs. McMillan and daughter Miss Bess of Logansport, Ind., left yesterday for home after an extended and pleasant visit with their relatives Mrs. and Miss Burrow.

Miss Josie Palmes leaves tonight for Montgomery. Miss Louise Palmes who has been quite ill of a severe cold is better.

Miss Genevieve Shuttleworth plans to spend all of next week as the guest of Miss Ida Palmes.

Mrs. Ben Morris and son Roy of DeFuniak Springs are visiting her mother Mrs. Radcliffe.

Mr. and Mrs. Douville, and their sons Mr. George and Mr. Roy Douville, who have been at the hotel, will occupy Captain and Mrs. Frank Dunn's residence.

The society page of the Atlanta Constitution of Sunday contained the following announcement: "Mrs. John H. Hall of Maysville, Ky., announces the engagement of her daughter, Thirty visitors were registered at the Chipley Hotel on Monday.

Improvements of the town are not progressing as rapidly as might be expected with a new railroad in sight. Business is dull with the general merchants.

MYSTERIOUS INCENTIVE THAT DICTATES ACTION

By Lala Hopkins

Should one be on the lookout for simple illustrations to be found in the inanimate surroundings that will exemplify perfectly the phases of life as they come and go, we will find the world a genuine album of inspiration. This very proxy fact was forced upon the writer a few days ago when standing on the wharf waiting for the launch which was to convey her to the life saving station, she stepped aside to listen to a photograph. Several small children stood by who had never heard the airs produced by Edison's marvelous invention, and their criticism on the delight exhibited by those enjoying the concert, was at once pertinent and bearing on the point that emphasized our introduction.

One small youth remarked, "Aint they silly, laughin' to their selves, we can't hear nuthin'."

Ah! how much is contained in those few words—"we can't hear nuthin'." And so it is all through life; we can't tell the motive that makes one of our sisters do certain things that to us seem ridiculous and uncalled for. We don't hear the mysterious incentive that produces the smile, and causes the foot to tap in unison with the hidden sounds, or perhaps by its minor chords wakens into tenderness the very depths of one's nature.

Don't let us judge hastily. One life is so different from another. Avoid
